John 20

JOY! Paul's "Rejoicing Letter" to the Philippians contains a beautiful poem called the "Christ Hymn." In it, Paul tells his friends that they are free to love one another and not think of themselves as better than others.

He wrote, "Even Jesus, who was equal to God, didn't act like he was better. He was born as a poor human, served others and even died for us. Because of that, God gave him the highest and best name of all so that everyone who hears it would worship him." He reminded his friends that God lived in them, and would help them do the things God called them to do: love and serve God and others.

Jesus Emptied Himself

Jesus could have been a king. Instead, Jesus was a servant to show us how to live.

Try it At Home

This week, see if you can buy or bake (with a helper) some "humble pie." Meaning: you bake or get the pie that someone else likes best, then you give it to them!
